New ASHI Certified Home Inspectors

2017 Infrared Level 1 Training Class Was a Success

On May 23 through May 26, a group of CREIA and ASHI inspectors from San Diego to Ventura met in Downey, California, to listen and learn about infrared thermography. Bob Guyer from the LA/Ventura Chapter, and Dennis Para II from the San Diego Chapter, hosted this toolbox in a joint effort to give CREIA and ASHI members an opportunity to get their Level 1 Certification. Bill Fabian from Monroe Infrared taught the Level 1 class. Bill does a great job and we all left with a greater appreciation of the infrared thermography field and its opportunities for inspectors. Members from various chapters around the Southern California area attended the class and earned their Level 1 Certification. Tool Box events are a great place to learn something new, see old friends and make new acquaintances. See you at the next one.

Please see Page 18 for The Great Lakes Chapter event photos.
St. Louis Chapter Peer Review

The St. Louis Chapter held our annual Peer Review Friday, May 12. The subject house was a 1,500 square foot house constructed in 1977. Twenty-five ACIs, Inspectors and Associates participated in one of the St. Louis Chapter’s best hands-on trainings offered. We divided the participants into four groups and each group rotated through the house based on the predefined proctored areas. Each participant was to create a list that included the defect that the proctors put on the must-find list. After concluding the inspection portion of the Peer Review, we reconvened in a private room at a local restaurant for a discussion and powerpoint slide show, which included the must-find list items and reporting of those items found in the 40-year-old house. Several of the points of discussion included extensive storage, fire separation issues flue piping defects, electrical issues, and the deck. The ASHI-approved event was eligible for CEs and lasted about five hours.
